

University of North Florida

The University of North Florida campus is nestled on 1,300 acres of exquisite nature and wildlife on the edge of suburban Jacksonville in Northeast Florida. The beach and downtown are conveniently located only minutes away by car. The campus is "smoke-free" and offers numerous nature and jogging trails.

In 2001, the UNF Department of Music moved to its new home, a state-of-the-art performing arts complex. The new Fine Arts Center includes the Lazzara Performance Hall which seats 1,400 guests for major events, an intimate 200 seat recital hall, four large rehearsal rooms, 44 individual practice rooms, and specially designed teaching studios and classrooms. The fully equipped theatre has state-of-the-art lighting, sound and acoustics - and is the second largest theatre facility in the area.
